Introductory notes and explanations

Accuracy of research notes and content

When possible research note details are corroborated, and in some cases corrected, by official Naval records (e.g., via deck log entries of the Calvert or ships operating with the Calvert). However, not all content items captured in this document are corroborated by official Naval records.

Time

All times are in "24-hour" time. For example, 0000 is midnight, 0400 is 4am, ... 1200 is noon, 2000 is 8pm ..., and so on.

Material Conditions

References to "Material Condition" throughout this document reflect references in the USS Calvert's deck logs. A given material condition describes "the fighting integrity of the ship and its preparedness to maintain survivability under attack. The determination of the material condition set at any time is the responsibility of the Commanding Officer, who may authorize modifications of any material condition." Source and additional information: <https://www.globalsecurity.org/military/systems/ship/condition.htm>

Material Condition X-RAY: Provides the least tightness and the greatest ease of access throughout the ship. It is set when the threat to the ship is minimal, during working hours when in port, or when there is no danger of attack or bad weather.

YOKE is set when at sea, or in port during wartime.

Material Condition ZEBRA provides the greatest degree of subdivision and tightness to the ship. It is set immediately and automatically when general quarters is sounded. It is also set when entering or leaving port during wartime, to localize damage and control fire and flooding, or at any time the Commanding Officer deems it necessary.

Modified Material Condition ZEBRA - Allows movement around the ship for special conditions such as: Underway Replenishment; Vertical Replenishment; Amphibious Operations; Transit of known or suspected hazardous navigation areas.

General Quarters: Represents a condition of readiness for combat on a warship, during which crew members remain at their battle stations and have guns and ammunition ready for immediate loading.

Condition One-Alfa: Indicates active amphibious activities by the crew of the and the employment of the ship's landing craft in these exercises. The USS Calvert deck logs indicate this condition a variety of ways, including: One-Alfa, One-Alpha, 1-Alfa, 1-Alpha, and similar.

Abbreviations

ISE: Independent Ship Exercises

1965	Mid-September to early-October		Yokosuka	Liberty in Yokosuka "Our first Japanese port of call was Yokosuka, located on the island of Honshu. ... The first contact with Japanese culture for nearly all sailors came from a little vehicle that some called taxis. The tiny cabs (90 or 100 yen), scurried alongside the left side of the road, stopping for no one, and blurting out occasional honks on the car horn. Almost invariably the first stop was "Thieves Alley," a major attraction for all ships of the fleet. The alley, also called Broadway Avenue, bustled with activity throughout the day and night. Excitement, intrigue, drama, and sympathy abounded in this street of peddlers, neon signs, bars, shops, and shoe shine boys. The gifts of the Orient were at a surplus and nearly anything in the nature of souvenirs could be purchased for a price. Prices ranged from 100-1000s of yen. The price you paid was not always the union price. It depended on how shrewd you could halve the prices at the expense of time and the fun of arguing with the merchants. There were more serious things to do than visit Thieves Alley. The electric railway made it easy to visit nearby attractions as Kamakura, Yokohama, Tokyo, and Hakone National Park."	Photographs: USS Calvert's 1965-66 Western Pacific Fareast Cruise Book Page 114 Online: http://www.usscalvert.com/crew/calverts-64-westpac-cruise-book/

"We visited Okinawa which serves as a forward base of operations for the Marine Corps in the Western Pacific. Later in November we made our second visit to Vietnam, this time to DaNang, one of our principal links of the long supply route from the United States to our forces committed in the war zone. We arrived during the height of the monsoon season and were greeted with incessant rain and high winds. Although the elements hampered our offloading operations we did meet our schedule and left enroute once again to Subic Bay."

Station Ship, Da Nang Harbor - December 25, 1965 to January 19, 1966

1) "Christmas 1965 found the Calvert in Da Nang off-loading war supplies. She remained there until January 18, 1966 as Station Ship, and as such served as a vital communications and logistics link between the Seventh Fleet and Da Nang in addition to providing accommodations for personnel attached to various components of the Naval Support Activity there."

2) Christmas found Calvert in DaNang, once again unloading critical war supplies for our forces in the embattled hills of vietnam. We remained in DaNang until 18 January, serving as a vital long-range communications link for ships of the Seventh Fleet and our support headquarters ashore, in addition to providing accomodations for personnel attached to various components of the Naval Support Activity in DaNang. After being relieved by the USS Magoffin, another ship of Amphibious Squadron Five we made a brief stop at the extensive Marine Base at Chu Lai, S. Vietnam

3) "The Calvert served as a floating hotel for crews unloading ships in that busy port."

4) "Were navy personnel stationed in DaNang Billed on the USSCALVERT in December 1965 and January 1966"

5) Crew members aboard the Calvert for this period are eligible for Agent Orange Claims as the Calvert is officially recorded as a "Brown Water Ship" for this time in Da Nang harbor and while ashore.

"Calvert (APA-32) | (Amphibious Attack Transport) | Entered inland waters of Qui Nhon Bay during October 1965 | Served as Da Nang Harbor station ship with crewmembers going ashore from November 1965 through January 1966

6) The Calvert and crew earned the Vietnam Service Medal for the period December 25, 1965 to January 19, 1966 during the Vietnamese Counter Offensive campaign.

Crew recollections from this period of time:
				1) "... the Calvert was required to provide security for the port and also furnish boats and hatch crews to off load merchant ship's cargo visiting the port. The crew of the Calvert was superb in every respect, even though they were working under terrible conditions. In the month of December we experienced 54 inches of rain and, furthermore, we had to be constantly alert for floating booby traps and under water swimmers."	1) Calversion, Vol 40, P5. John G. 				4) "The heavy work load in NAM was tiring and rewarding. " - Dennis D. Willess	5) Calversion Vol 29, P3
				5) "I would like to mention that I very well remember Captain May. He was a sharp, savvy Marine. I served under him while I was assigned to several landing parties, board & search patrols. He taught me many things when assigned to those details, especially during our time in Vietnam, while on board and search patrols in Qui Nhon Bay, Danang Harbor and other parts of Nam that I can hardly remember. Capt. May taught us many things especially what to look for and expect while on patrols." - Bob Filindi, SM3." Biography of Marine Corps Captain James S. 				From: Commanding Officer, USS Calvert (APA-32) To: <crew member's name>, <service number>, <rating/rank>, <USN or USNR> Subj: Letter of Commendation 1. During the period 25 December 1965 thru 16 January 1966, Calvert was assigned duty as Station Ship, DaNang, RVN. In addition during this period, Commanding Officer, USS Calvert functioned as Commander, Task Unit 76.0.0. These assignments resulted in communications work load that was approximately six times normal load. Throughout this period you expeditiously and professionally executed all assigned duties, giving unselfishly of many hours of your own time outside of normal watch time and working hours. By your diligence and devotion to duty, you contributed in a most significant manner to Calvert's efficient performance. 2. You are commended for your distinguished performance of duty throughout this period which represents outstanding achievement and reflects the utmost credit on yourself and the United States Navy. 3. A copy of this letter will be made a part of your permanent service record.	1) Warren Burch, email correspondence, April 19, 2020 1) Letter of Commendation Online: http://www.usscalvert.com/2020/05/05/letter-of-commendation-danang-vietnam-12-25-1965-01-16-1966/

Announcing the upcoming inactivation of the USS Calvert.
Excerpt from Captain Ward's Letter to Family & Friends of Calvert, dated February 1, 1966
1966	February	1	Hong Kong Harbor	"As most of you realize, USS Calvert has been directed to report to the Pacific Reserve Fleet for inactivation at the Mare Island Naval Shipyard in Vallejo, California. The inactivation of a ship of the fleet is always an event tinged with sadness but in the case of Calvert it will be especially unhappy for many. Her history has paralleled that of the Navy during her lifetime and her crew has made every sacrifice in support of our national objectives. A participant in the major campaigns of the Second World War, from North Africa to the tropical jungles of the Pacific, she continued in amphibious operations during the Korean Campaign and this year in Vietnam. But as the scope of the Navy's international commitments continue to expand, Calvert must yield her place in the active fleet to newer, faster, and more technologically sophisticated ships. Though she will soon leave her active role in the Navy she will always carry with her a stellar record of performance in her country's service, a record established long ago and zealously maintained through the years by the diligence, enthusiasm and hard work of those who have sailed in her." Sincerely, John G. Ward, Captain, U.S. Navy	Captain Ward's Letter to Family & Friends of Calvert. Dated February 1, 1966. A Veteran Comes Home
Jack E. Hancock
As four U.S. Naval ships returned home from war in Vietnam, on a Saturday in February 1966, Military Writer Robert Zimmerman must have known three sleek Destroyers would receive the bulk of the newshole slated for the Sunday morning San Diego Union's local section.
And on Sunday it proved out as the Sunday Editor made a splash with three wonderful destroyer and crew photographs across the top full-width of picture-page-B showing a happy reunion with banner headline: "Combat Duty Ends With A Smile."
Sailors at sea, not on watch or working, can be found lining the rail when a Destroyer comes alongside a larger ship for high-line passing of movies, fuel or such. Described sometimes as Greyhounds of the Sea, the small maneuverable ships can display instant get-up and go at the end of the show.. They are a beautiful sight to behold. It is quite common for an Old Salt manning the rail to quietly exclaim, "Here comes the Navy."
Email, Jack E. Hancock, February 15, 2022
But writer Zimmerman recognized the story, that day, was about a veteran coming home -.the USS Calvert APA-32.
A wise lay-out-editor attached the story to the San Diego Union's local page masthead, page A-9 - marking history with place, title and date for Sunday morning readers.
"Navy Transport Ends Last Trip In Her 3rd War" - the headline read.
(San Diego Union's historical archives, Page A-9 and continuing story Page A-10, February 27 1966.)
Captain R.B. Ricks words appeared guarded in his descriptive narrative news interview, on this the Calvert's last war, possibly because "Loose lips sink ships." or it could have been the Union's page count required judicious editing. Not stated in the story was the ship also served as a, rotating shore patrol in Da Nang, Beach Guard first posted Dec. 26 1965, Da Nang, Staff Duty Officer supplied for Da Nang and multiple rotating Beach Guards, noted in declassified Deck Log began logging in and out on daily basis. Multiple temporary assigned duties, including reporting to Provost Marshall's Office logged 29 Dec. 65 in ship's log. Communication relay for the fleet expanded to six times the normal load, Shore Patrol as well as Beach Guard logged as a continuing pattern beginning 28 Dec. 65. boat taxi service, bay boat security patrol, supply courier, open kitchen and more untold notable billets.
The Calvert, beautiful in design and dependable, was a work horse. With a scooped tale for ride and designed as a commercial freighter, she rode the sea smoothly Originally designed to also carry paying passengers. Word could get around if the ride wasn't smooth. Later her design proved right smart to serve as a hotel for workers unloading ships in Da Nang, Vietnam.
A Naval ship is a sailor's home during sea duty and for a majority of sailors their true home. The crew is a sailor's family. It was an amiable crew while aboard in 1965-66. Ships acquire a name through their officers and crew. The Calvert had a name for being shipshape, available throughout her history to answer any call and known for getting the job done. We felt safe and we had confidence in our officers.
And we have pictures. The crew had a wonderful photographer in Ensign Philip K. Selden, who historically preserved the Calvert in both bright and brooding light with striking picture results in Vietnam and upon our return home in her last tour.

Our home port was San Diego and the majority of crew wanted to take their families to San Francisco. I sent a message to CNO requesting premissison for the families to come aboard and make the trip from San Diego to San Francisco on board the Calvert. Our request was approved and we departed San Diego late in the afternoon and had two nights at sea. I am sure many will remember this eventful cruise." 2) "The USS Calvert departed San Diego for San Francisco Wednesday, May 18, to be placed in the reserve fleet after nearly 24 years of service. As the last mooring line was slipped Calvert backed away from pier 3 for the last time with many dependents on board for the 2-day trip to San Francisco.
